-Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Technology is shaping tomorrow's society by shaping today's teenagers. Nowadays, teens seem incapable of having a quality face-to-face conversation that lasts more than two minutes. Experts attribute this to the lack of meaningful interaction and social habits, which are a direct consequence of modern technology. Basically, people have the need to be connected to each other 24 hours a day, 7 days a week but never in person.

Technology can be seen as a social obstacle. I myself have been caught up in technological web. When I want to see my friends, I just video chat them on skype. It is easier to see them that way than taking the time to meet them in person. I can also talk to the whole group at the same time in one call instead of meeting them one by one.

Technology can give you access to a whole new world of people and information. Without the internet, I wouldn't be able to find facts about things as varied as computers, cars, and cameras quite as quickly and easily. Sites such as YouTube allow you to watch anything from a funny video to a lesson on Physics. People learn more about each other through Instagram and Facebook.

Yet we need to be really careful not to get too obsessed with it as it will steal your time and keep you quite isolated and unsociable.

-Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Doctors in Britain are worried because British teenagers eat lots of crisps, sweets and fatty food. Most teenagers don't eat enough fruits or vegetables and more than one million British school children are overweight. Some teenagers say that they don't have time to eat good food, but kids who have a poor diet often have health problems when they are older .

Americans have been familiar with fast food for a long time; it was born there. American fast food is now a part of life far beyond the shores of the United States. McDonald's, Pizza Hut and Burger King have restaurants all over the world. No one can disagree that the idea of fast food at a fair price has its place around the world. These restaurants are popular simply because they fit most people's income and are everywhere .

A regular diet of burgers, fries and soda may seem tasty, but it won't nourish your body with the vitamins and minerals you need to stay healthy. Fast food lacks many important nutrients. Some parents do not like the increase of fast-food restaurants where people eat high-calorie foods of low nutritional value. They know how bad for health this is.

Now doctors are giving young people books and games about a good diet. Having a healthy, well-balanced diet can help you feel better and live longer.

Read the following passage carefully, and then answer the questions below:

I've just finished my first week at a new school and I would like to tell you about it. Like other children in my country, I went to primary school until I was eleven and then I had to go to a different school for older children. I loved my primary school, but I was excited to move to a new school.

It was very strange on our first day. There were some kids from my primary school there, but most of the children in my year group were from different schools. But I soon started talking to the boy who was sitting beside me in maths. He lives near me, so we walked home together. We are best friends now.

When I saw our timetable, there were lots of subjects, some were quite new to me! Lessons are harder now. They are longer and the subjects are more difficult, but the teachers help us a lot.

At primary school we had all our lessons in one classroom. Now each subject is taught in a different room. It was difficult to find the classrooms at first because the school is so big. But the teachers gave us each a map of the school, so it is getting easier now. The worst thing is that I have lots more homework to do now. Some of it is fun but I need to get better at remembering when I have to give different pieces of work to the teachers!
