B) Reading Comprehension(16Marks)*Read the following passage, then answer the questions that follow:

Living in space is not the same as living on Earth. In space, astronauts' bodies change. On Earth, our lower body and legs carry our weight. This helps keep our bones and muscles strong. In space, astronauts float. They do not use their legs much. Their lower backs begin to lose strength. Their leg muscles do too. The bones begin to get weak and thin. This is very bad for astronauts' bodies. So, how do astronauts help their muscles and bones? They must exercise in space every day.

The heart and blood change in space, too. When we stand up on Earth, blood goes to our legs. The heart has to work extra hard against gravity to move the blood all around the body. In space, without the pull of gravity, the blood moves to the upper body and head. Water in the body also does the same thing. Blood and water in the body move from the bottom of the body to the top. The brain thinks that there are too many fluids. It will tell the body to make less. When the astronauts come back to Earth, they do not have enough fluids in their bodies. It takes their bodies a few days to make more blood and water. The astronauts have to rest so their bodies have time to make new blood and water. If they don't, they can feel very weak. They might even faint!

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

Can you imagine life without French fries? Potatoes are very popular today. They are the fourth most important crop in the world, after wheat, rice, and corn. People in Europe started to eat them only 200 years ago!

The people of Peru had been eating potatoes for 7,000 years! In 1500s, the Spanish brought the potato to Europe. In Europe, some people thought that if you ate potatoes, your skin would look like the skin of a potato. Other people could not believe that one could eat the underground part of the plant, so they ate the leaves instead. This made them sick because there is poison in the leaves. Others grew potatoes for their flowers. At one time in France, potato flowers were one of the most expensive flowers.

Around 1780, the people of Ireland started to eat potatoes. They found that potatoes had many advantages. The potato grew on poor land, and it grew well in their cold and rainy climate. It gave more food than any other plant, and it needed little work. All they had to do was to plant the potatoes, and then they could do other work on the farm. On a small piece of land, a farmer could grow enough potatoes to feed his family. Soon, potatoes became the main food in Ireland. Then, in 1845, a disease killed all the potatoes in Ireland and two million people died of famine.

Today, many countries have their own potato dishes. Germans eat potato salad, Americans have the baked potato, and the French invented French fries. flowers were one of the most expensive flowers.

B – Reading Comprehension (16 Marks)

H.L.

Read the following passage carefully, then answer the questions below:

Octopuses are widely considered to be the most intelligent ocean creatures. They are famous for having eight arms and a giant egg-shaped head. They have three hearts and blue blood. They feed on small fish and shrimps. Because they are boneless, they can squeeze themselves into small spaces between rocks and hide from their enemies.

Scientists realised that octopuses can learn new things just like humans, such as learning tricks to get out of bad situations. If an octopus is attacked by an enemy, like a shark, it can use some skills to get away. Octopuses don't have teeth or sharp claws to keep themselves safe from harm. They use cleverer ways to protect themselves from their enemies.

Octopuses can change the colour of their skin to match the sand in less than a minute. They like to stay in shallow water where there are rocks and coral reefs. They can also hide by shooting ink into the water. This will temporarily blind the attacker, giving the octopus time to swim away. If an octopus is attacked, it acts like a sea snake. It will hide in the sand, keeping its arms visible and changing its colour to be like a sea snake.

The most amazing fact about octopuses is that the oldest octopus fossil found was from an animal that lived 296 million years ago-millions of years before the dinosaurs lived.

Read the following passage then answer the questions below:

A zoo is a place where we can see different animals. In the UK there are forty- eight zoos, plus six safari parks. Some people do not like the zoo because they think that it is wrong to keep wild animals in cages. Other people agree, but they think that if the cage is large, the animals will feel happy. Animals have good food every day and if they are ill, they are given the suitable medicine. People don't have to worry about animals. There are all kinds of animals in a zoo: wild animals, small and even rare animals which are hard to find in the nature.

In the forest, small animals don't live long because they are killed by larger animals. In a zoo, these animals are safe. The very large animals, like lions and tigers are unhappy because they miss the wide, open places where they used to live and hunt. Most people enjoy visiting the zoo. They usually prefer to look at the large animals although they are not always the most interesting. Sometimes visitors to the zoo are very unkind to animals.

They throw stones and other things at them and try to feed them the wrong food which is not allowed.
