Reading Comprehension

Read the following passage, and then answer the questions below:

Long time ago, there was a mighty king in India. His name is Rajo. He was well-known for his wisdom, intelligence and courage. One day, king Rajo's soldiers brought two young women who were quarrelling over a young baby. Each one of them claimed to be the mother of the baby. It wasn't easy for the king to know who is the real mother of the baby was.

To solve this problem, the king thought of a good idea. He ordered one of his soldiers to bring his sword to divide the baby forcefully into two halves and give one half to each. Hearing this incredible speech, the first woman hurried to the king and cried: "Have a pity on my baby if not on me, my king. Don't kill him. Let the baby be with her. Let him stay alive." The king could easily discover that the first woman was the real mother of the baby, so he gave her the baby and sent the second woman to prison. The real mother hugged her baby lovingly. She left the palace happily praying for long life to the king.
